Poulton Research Project - Medieval Cheshire and More
Kevin Cootes, Consultant Archaeologist, Poulton Research Project

Poulton is a small farming hamlet just outside Chester with a fascinating archaeological story to tell. Over the past twenty years, archaeologists from the Poulton Research Project have been uncovering the remains of over 10,000 years of human activity. Kevin Cootes, Consultant Archaeologist and Site Director will talk about some of the exciting discoveries on the site. The society will be offering a visit to Poulton Research Project on 14th April 2018.
